Economic Overview

Following the late 2018 pullback in US and global equity markets we have seen the US FED reverse its interest rate view, indicating that they are now on hold with respect to US short term interest rates. This year we have also seen downward revisions in global growth and a sharp slowdown in the forward looking economic survey data. While monetary conditions tightened marginally over 2018, these tighter monetary conditions were enough to impact a more heavily geared global economy. We are now in the late-cycle growth period in the US economy, and growth has shifted down a gear in both Europe and China.

China has responded to this slower growth with further monetary stimulus, but it remains to be seen whether this stimulus will be sufficient to underpin growth at 6% plus in their economy. Political uncertainty in Europe and the overhang of trade negotiations between China and the US still remain headwinds to investment and global growth. Global equity markets were oversold at the end of last year and have rebounded strongly in the first quarter of 2019. We now feel that global equity markets have priced in the benefits of the FED interest rate cuts and China stimulus. A lack of follow through from the FED may put equity markets under pressure. Commodity prices are also expected to remain under some pressure as global growth slows. The oil price seems to be the exception, with geopolitical issues and oil supply cuts from OPEC underpinning the USD oil price.

The South Africa rand has been reasonably resilient in spite of some political uncertainty in the run-up to the election in May. While SA economic growth was forecast to improve in 2019 we have seen downward revisions to previous growth forecasts in line with slowing global growth. The completion of the election in May should see an improvement in political sentiment, which could provide a short-term underpin to SA and see some improvement in SA stocks' performance.

Market Overview

Over the last quarter, ended 31 March 2019, we saw the following performance in the SA financial markets: the rand was 0.98% weaker relative to the US dollar, the Top 40 index's total return was up 8.50%, the All Bond index returned 3.80% and cash returned 1.70%.

Over the last quarter we saw the following performances out of world markets, The S&P 500 posted 13.49%, the Nasdaq 17.29%, The Euro Stoxx 50 12.17%, MSCI Japan 6.7% and Emerging Markets posted a gain of 9.81%.

Portfolio Activity

During the first quarter we sold out of our Home Depot, BlackRock, Facebook, Lowes and Samsung positions and lightened our position in Mastercard and Visa. The portfolio increased by 16,1% for the quarter with the last month of the quarter posting a 4,2% gain.

Positive contributions were attributable to BTI, Anheuser Busch, Facebook, Hong Kong Clearing and Exchange and Cisco. For the past 12 months the portfolio has increased 33% with the MSCI WD ETF index up 24.1%.
