

Balanced Portfolio - Quarterly

Investment Objective

This is a balanced investment portfolio focused on capital growth over a minimum investment period of five years. It has less risk when compared to a pure equity portfolio in that it offers a certain measure of capital protection. The portfolio follows an actively managed multi-asset investment strategy that incorporates passive investments such as exchange traded funds and index funds exposed to the main asset classes in the local and global markets. The portfolio aims to outperform the average South African balanced portfolio collective investment scheme's return on investment.

Investment Profile

- Investors who have a longer investment term (in excess of 5 years).

Economic Overview

Following the late 2018 pullback in US and global equity markets we have seen the US FED reverse its interest rate view, indicating that they are now on hold with respect to US short term interest rates. This year we have also seen downward revisions in global growth and a sharp slowdown in the forward looking economic survey data. While monetary conditions tightened marginally over 2018, these tighter monetary conditions were enough to impact a more heavily geared global economy. We are now in the late-cycle growth period in the US economy, and growth has shifted down a gear in both Europe and China.

China has responded to this slower growth with further monetary stimulus, but it remains to be seen whether this stimulus will be sufficient to underpin growth at 6% plus in their economy. Political uncertainty in Europe and the overhang of trade negotiations between China and the US still remain headwinds to investment and global growth. Global equity markets were oversold at the end of last year and have rebounded strongly in the first quarter of 2019. We now feel that global equity markets have priced in the benefits of the FED interest rate cuts and China stimulus. A lack of follow through from the FED may put equity markets under pressure. Commodity prices are also expected to remain under some pressure as global growth slows. The oil price seems to be the exception, with geopolitical issues and oil supply cuts from OPEC underpinning the USD oil price.

The South Africa rand has been reasonably resilient in spite of some political uncertainty in the run-up to the election in May. While SA economic growth was forecast to improve in 2019 we have seen downward revisions to previous growth forecasts in line with slowing global growth. The completion of the election in May should see an improvement in political sentiment, which could provide a short-term underpin to SA and see some improvement in SA stocks' performance.

Market Overview

Over the last quarter, ended 31 March 2019, we saw the following performance in the SA financial markets: the rand was 0.98% weaker relative to the US dollar, the Top 40 index's total return was up 8.50%, the All Bond index returned 3.80% and cash returned 1.70%.

The best performing stocks over the quarter were the PGM (Platinum Group Metal) producers, up 49.70%. Over this period we saw the price of precious metal palladium move up from $1256 to $1381, while the platinum price moved up from $792 to $835. The rally in the price of palladium is premised on a global shortage of the metal.

Over the quarter the Resources index was up 16%; the Financials sector was down -0.40% and the Industrial sector was down -3.90%.

The SA equity market is starting to look attractive on a valuation basis.

Portfolio Activity

During the first quarter we introduced Fortress B and Dischem to the portfolio, sold our holdings in Remgro and Mas Real Estate and lightened our exposure to Sasol, Naspers, ABSA Group and Discovery. On the international side we increased our exposure to the US Dollar, sold our emerging market and UK exposure post a quick run in equity prices and bought and sold developed market bond exposure which hit our target price in just short of a month. . The portfolio increased by 5.7% for the quarter with the last month of the quarter posting a 1.2% gain. Losses were attributable to our positions in Fortress B, Discovery, Dischem, Kap and Woolworths. Positive contributions were attributable to Naspers, Anheuser Busch, BATs, Glencore and Bidcorp. For the past 12 months the portfolio increased 3.8%, underperforming the benchmark Asisa MA High Equity Median manager which post a 5.5% increase
